Adesfos, f. m. Hablar Adesfos, it is a Spanish Proverb, signifying to speak nothing to the Purpose; or though it be to the Purpose, to talk to those that will not mind, or at least will not admit of what is said. It is taken from the Ephesians banishing of Hermodorus, only because he was more virtuous than they; for they would give no Ear to what he or his Friends could say to dissuade them, or else thought it all to no Purpose. Or from the same Ephesians persecuting the Apostle, at the Instigation of Alexander the Copper-Smith, without hearkening to Reason, but drowning all with the Cry of, Great is Diana of Ephesus. The ignorant People have made the two Words into one, and chang'd the ph into an f which has now prevail'd, and very many speak it without knowing what it means.

Prov. Amor de Padre (è de Madre) que todo lo otro es ayre, a Father's Love, or a Mother's, for all other Love is like Wind; the Love of Parents is so sincere, so passionate, and so disinterested, that all other Love compar'd to it, seems but mere Wind and Vanity.

Prov. Amor loco, è por amor, y è por otro, mad Love I follow you, and you follow another; this expresses the Folly of Love, when a Man loves and follows a Woman who he knows has plac'd her Heart elsewhere.

Prov. Amor trompéro (è amor mofoso) quantas veta tantas quéro, inconstant Love, running round like a Top, all I see I love. It expresses the Folly of some Men, who court and make Love to all the Women they meet; comparing their Love to a Top, which the more it is whipp'd, the more it turns round; so they, the more they are scorn'd and flur'd at, the more they turn to vent their Folly; it is also call'd call'd mesonero, that is, the Love of an Inn, where Wenches pretend to love all Comer and Goers.

Prov. Amor de Señor, Amor de Hurón, a Lord, or a great Man's Love, is like a Ferret's Love; that is, the Love great Men pretend is only to compass their Designs; their Intention is to play the Ferret, to ruin you and then leave you.

Prov. Amor de Monja, y fuego de estopa, y viento de vela, todo es uno, Nuns Love, Fire made of Tow, and Wind of the Arse is all alike. Part of this Proverb was mentioned above, and explain'd; this is the same with only the Addition, that to love Nuns is not worth a Part.

Prov. Amores nuevos olvidan viejos, new Love makes the old be forgot; one Nail drives out another.

Prov. Amores nuevos casa con pucheros, new Love is like a House full of Pipkins; that is, it stand upon ticklish Terms, it is easy to be broke; otherwise, Love is so expensive, that it reduces the Lover from a good Pot of Meat to a Pipkin; or else it may be taken in that Sense where Mazzer Pucheros signifies to make Faces as Children do when they cry; so amorous young Fops make many ugly Faces, and sometimes shed Tears for their Mistresses.

Prov. Amores, Dolores, y Dineros, no pueden estar secretos, Love, Pain, and Money cannot be kept private.

Prov. El Amor de Dios flores, todo lo al perice, the Love of God flourisheth, all other Things perish; a religious Proverb, to express the Uncertainty of the Things of this World, and persuade to the Love of God, which is the only certain good.

Prov. El Amor de los Asnos entra a cozes y a bocados, the Love of Asses is beaten in with kicking and biting; a Reproof for boisterous Lovers.

Prov. El Amor y la Guadaña, quieren fuerza, y quieren maña, Love and the Scythe require Force and Art; that is, it is requisite in Love to use Importunity, signified by Force, and Industry or Art, at the same time, as well as in Mowing, where a Man, though never so strong, cannot manage a Scythe without he has the Knack of it.

Prov. Los Amores del Gato riñendo en tran, Cats Love begins by quarrelling; as we daily see in Caterwauling; this is to the same Effect as that above of the Ass.

Prov. Un Amor, saca otro, one Love drives out another; the same as that above, Amores nuevos olvidan viejos.

Al Amor el remedio, es tierra en medio, the Remedy for Love is Land between; that is, Absence is the best Cure for Love.

Prov. Lo perdido viene por Amor de Dios, let that which is lost be given for the Love of God; a Reproof to those who give nothing but what they cannot tell what to do with, or what is of no Use to them.

Prov. Quien casa por Amores, malos Dias, y buenas noches, they that marry for Love, have bad Days and good Nights; because very often when they marry for Love there wants a Fortune, or else they discover many Faults, which before were hid, and this makes the Days uneasy; but the Nights having the desired Enjoyment, forget the Trouble of the Day.

Prov. Pase los Amores, y quedan los dolores, Love passes away, and the Pain remains; that is, rash Love after Enjoyment, turns into Trouble and Sorrow.

Prov. Quando el caso de Amor muere, que hará quien andar puede, when the lame Man dies for Love, what will become of him that can go? that is, when vile People take upon them, what may not their betters do?

Anápas, this Fruit was first carry'd into India from Brazil, and has throve well; it is as big as a small Lemon, very yellow and odoriferous. When ripe it is very delicious to the Taste and Juicy; only one grows upon a Stalk, which is as tall as an Artichoke, with many small ones about it; which, when they gather the great one, they plant, and each of them produces a Plant growing up in a Year. This Fruit is hot and moist, and is eaten dipp'd in Wine. There is another Sort which they call Anápas Brávo, or wild Anápas, which grow as high as a Horse-man's Spear, smooth, strait, round, and as thick as an Orange Tree, the Leaves prickly and a great Knot of them at the Foot of it, the Roots of it are entangled under Ground, and sprout up again, one Tree producing another, so that they make Hedges; on the Boughs grows a Fruit call'd the wild Anápas, because like the other; it is as big as a Melon, of a pleasant red, all divided like the Cyprus-Apple, but at a Distance like the Pine Apple, it is not very pleasant to the Taste, and therefore eaten by few. There comes a Moisture from the Trees and Root which is of good Use in Physick. Christ. Acost. Nat. Hist. E. Ind.

A S I

Asia, one of the four Parts of the World, and the first in respect that Man was there created, and redeemed. The five principal Parts of it are, Tartary, China, India, Persia, and the Turkish Empire; on the West it is divided from Europe by the Rivers Obb, Rai, and Tanais, or Don, by the Black-Sea and Mediterranean; then is join'd to Afric by a small Neck of Land bordering on Egypt, and parted from the Rest of it by the Red-Sea; on the South it has the main Ocean, and in it a great Number of noble Islands; on the East, the great Ocean still, except towards the Northern Part, where it is not yet known how far it stretches out towards America; but on the North it has the Frozen-Sea. The Name of Asia, the Learned Bochart, in his Geographia Sacra, says, is deriv'd from the Phoenician Word Asia, signifying the middle Part, because this Name was at first proper only to that we now call Asia the Less, or Natolia, which juts out into the Mediterranean, and lyes as it were in the Middle of the Sea, and in the Middle between Europe and Africa, and from that Part the Name in Process of Time was communicated to all that vast Continent.

Asno, f. m. an As. Latin Asinus.

Asno campés, or Campesino, a wild As.

Asno sardesco, an As of the Sardinian Breed, which are very serviceable.

Prov. El Asno a la vibuela, The As to the Lute; this they say when a Man pretends to those Things he does not understand; as an ignorant Person pretending to talk learnedly, which is as if an As should pretend to play upon a Lute.

Prov. Dadle al Asno, put on the As; we say, drive on Carman; which is to say, a Man would rather be hang'd than marry an ugly Woman; for in Spain Criminals are carried to Execution upon an As, instead of the Cart used in England.

Prov. El Asno y la muger, a pulos se han de Pender, an As and a Woman are to be conquer'd with a Cudgel; the Occasion of this Proverb they say was a Carrier, who coming to a narrow Passage could not get his As to go on, and fell a beating of him unmercifully, till a Traveller coming by, and reproving him for so doing, he bid him hold his Peace, for an As and a Woman are to be overcome with a Cudgel. The Traveller who had an ill Wife went Home and try'd the Experiment upon her, which he found had good Effect, and so the Proverb held good.

Prov. No compres Asno de recuero, ni te cases con hija de Mesentro, do not buy an As of a Carrier, nor marry an Inn keeper's Daughter; the Reason, because if a Carrier sells his As, which he has so much Use for himself, he must either be very bad, or old, or sold dear; and for the Inn-keeper's Daughter, she is expos'd to so much Company, and so many Temptations, ons, that it is hard for her to come off untainted.

Prov. Quien al Asno alaba, tal hijo le nasce, he that praises the Ass, may he have such a Son born to him; that is, may he that is over fond of mean Things never know better, but may all he has be mean.

Prov. Asno coxo mas avias de madrugår, lame Ass, you ought to get up earlier; this is apply'd to those who are dull, slow, or unhandy, and therefore cannot compass their Business in Time, it advises them to rise early, that they may have Leisure to perform their Affairs, since Nature has obstructed their doing them as quick as others.

Prov. Asno con oro, alcánzalo todo, an Ass loaded with Gold overtakes every Thing; that is, though a Man be never so much an Ass, if he has but Money enough, he may do what he pleases.

Prov. Asno mulo cabe casa aguija sin palo, an ill Ass puts on when he is near Home without beating; this we see in all Jades, which when they know they are drawing towards Home, will go without Whip or Spur.

Prov. Asno coxo, y hombre roxo, y el Demónio, todo es uno, a lame Ass, and a red hair'd Man, and the Devil, are all one; so ill a Conceit they have of red Hair, and as for a lame Beast, every Body knows it is plague enough.

Prov. Asno de muchas lobos le comen, the Wolves devour the Ass that belongs to many Owners; because, if he has many Owners, none of them look to him; therefore we say, what is every Body's Business is no Body's Business.

Prov. Burlaos con el Asno dáros ha en la cara con el rabo, jest with an Ass, and he'll flap you in the Face with his Tail; if you make yourself familiar, or jest with mean People, you must expect no better than a Flap in your Face with their Tail; that is, some brutish Words or Actions.

Prov. Caydo ha el Asno en el Alcañal, the Ass is fallen among the green Barley; this is to express a Misfortune attended with some good Circumstance which alleviates, or quite blots it out; as is signify'd by the Ass falling among green Barley, where, though he had the ill Luck to fall, yet he may fill his Belly to enable him to go on.

Prov. Dasque no pudo al Asno, tornase al albarda, since he could not be reveng'd upon the Ass, he falls upon the Pack-saddle; this shows the Humour of many Men, who when offended, and dare not show their Resentment on them that caus'd it, vent their Passion on their Wives, Children, Servants, or others they have Power over.

Prov. Habló el Asno, y dixo, Ho, Ho, The Ass spoke and said Ho, Ho; for those who after a long Silence, as if they had been studying Sentences, break out with something that is not at all to the Purpose.

Prov. Mas vale Asno que me lleve, que cavilla que me derruque, I had rather have an Ass that will carry me, than a Horse that will throw me; that is, I had rather be contented with a moderate Convenience, or with indifferent Things which I can compass and manage, than with Greatness that may cost me a fall.

Prov. Mas vale con mal Asno contender, que la leña acuéstus traer, it is better to strive with an ill Ass, than to carry the Wood upon one's Back; a bad Servant is better than to do one's own Work.

Prov. Al Asno muerto la cavilla al rabo, when the Ass is dead, the Barley at his Tail; A Reproof to them that are slow in doing good, even when it is too late, or even then misplace it; as it is after a poor Beast is starv'd, to lay the Provender at his Tail.

Prov. Al Asno y al mulo la carga al culo, the Ass and the Mule must have the Burthen upon the Rump; that is, they must have it laid on behind; but in another Sense, that brutish Men must be cudgell'd as Mules and Asses are, behind; for that is also a Load according to the Spanish Phrase, Una carga de palos; that is, a good Beating.

Prov. Sufre el Asno la carga, mas no la sobrecarga, the Ass bears the Burthen, but not an over-burthen; that is, we must not lay too much upon a Man, tho' he be never so patient, for if you overburthen him, like the Ass, he'll throw all down.

Prov. Un Asno entre muchas monas, cocante todas, when one Ass is among many Monkeys, they all make Faces at him; when a Cully falls into the Hands of many Sharpers they all fleece him; or, when many Women make a Fool of a Man.

Prov. A un Asno bastale una albarda, one Pannel is enough for one Ass; one Employment is enough for one Man.

Prov. A Asno modorro arriero loco, a mad Carrier for a jadish Ass; because a mad Fellow will always be thrashing, talking, and putting him on.

Prov. Esso le está como al Asno los corales, that becomes him as a Coral does an Ass; we say, such a one looks like a Sow saddled.

Prov. No ves siete sobre un Asno, he sees not seven as he sits upon an Ass; a Man had seven Asses, drove six of them and rode upon the other, as he was going he several Times counted them, and still found but six, forgetting that he had one under him, till enquiring of those he met for the seventh, one show'd him that he was upon, and then he found out his Mistake. Thence, when a Man does not see or conceive the most obvious Things, they say, he cannot see seven when he sits upon an Ass; it is not unlike, he cannot see the Wood for Trees.

Prov. Si uno, dos, y tres te dicen que eres Asno, ponte un rabo, if one, two, and three tell you, you are an Ass, put on a Tail; that is, whatever is generally said of you, you must of Necessity acquiesce, for either it is true, or it will be impossible for you to undeceive the World.

Prov. Asno cargado de oro sube ligero por una montaña, an Ass loaded with Gold climbs a Mountain nimbly; this tho' not verify'd in the literal Sense, is to express how readily Men undertake any Thing, and with what Alacrity they perform it for the Lucre of Gold.

Prov. Cadr de su Asno, to fall from his Ass; when a Man is obstinate and will take no Advice, and discovers his Error too late, they say he falls from his Ass; that is, he was before like an Ass mounted on his own Polly, and is then fallen down, being made sensible of his Ignorance.

Prov. O morirá el Asno, o quien le aguija, either the Ass will dye, or his Driver; when the Death of one, of two, or more, will deliver a Man out of Trouble; taken from a Man that undertook for a Maintenance, and good Reward, to make his Ass speak in a certain Term of Years, and a Friend asking him how he came to undertake such an Impossibility, upon forfeiture of Life, if he fail'd? He answer'd, either the Lord will dye, meaning him that kept them, or the Ass, or the Driver will dye before that Time.

Balsamina, f. f. the Herb Balm.
Balsamo, Balsam of the Indies, it is famous for its delicate Scent, and more for its wonderful Effects in healing Wounds, and Cure of several Distempers. The Tree this Balsam comes from, is as big as the Pomegranate Tree, or somewhat bigger, and something like it. There is of it white, red, green, and black. It comes from the Tree, cutting a Gash in it, whence it flows in abundance. Some is pure, which they call Opobalsamum, and distills from the Tree; the other, which is not so good, is extracted from the Wood, Bark, and Leaves, boil'd and press'd, and this they call Xilobalsamum; besides some adulterate it, mixing other Liquors with it. 'Tis only Plenty makes it less valu'd, for it is no way inferior to the celebrated Balsam of Neo-Spain, and the Provinces of Guatemala, and Chiapa, but the best is that of the Island of Julu, not far from Carthagena; which is generally white, and the white is better than the red, that better than the green, and the black the worst. F. Jos. Acosta, Nat. Hist. W. Ind. lib. 4. chap. 28. p. 163. Those that desire it, may see much more in Monardes, fol. 9. and 84.
Balsamo, to the Account above out of Acosta, concerning that Balsam of the West Indies it is not amiss to add a Word

Bezaür, ò Piedra Bezaür, the Bezoar-stone; in the West-Indies these are found in the Maw, or Belly of the Indian Sheep (of which you may see more, verb. Llamas) sometimes they find in a Sheep but one, sometimes two, three, or four; some less than small Nuts, others as big as Pidgeons Eggs, and the Author has seen one as big as an Orange. In Shape, some are round, some oval, others irregular. As to Colour, there are black, white, greenish, and gold Colour. They are made as it were of several Layers, or Crusts, one upon another. Several Creatures are said to produce them besides the Llamas, as the Vicuñas, Tarugas, and Cypress. The Vicuñas commonly yield the largest, and the Tarugas the best. The Stone is of excellent Use in Physick. The best Bezoar Stones are those brought from the East-Indies, the next to them, those of Peru, and the last in order, those of New-Spain. It has often been found that these Stones grow in the Beast's Maw or Belly, upon some Bit of Iron or Stick, which the Creature has swallow'd, these things being found in the Middle of them, which makes some People believe they are Counterfeits, but it is most certain they are not. F. Jof. Acost. Nat. Hist. W. Ind. lib. 4. chap. 42. p. 296. Christ. Acost. Nat. Hist. of E. Ind. says, the Bezoar is found there in a Creature somewhat resembling a Goat, and a Deer, very swift, which the Persians call Pazan. The Persians, Arabs, and Corazans, call the Stone Pazar, from the Beast. To know the true Bezoar from the Counterfeit, they take a little Dust of Lime, and wetting any Part of the Stone with the Tip of the Tongue, rub it upon that Dust, which if true, it dyes of a fine Green, if false, it either alters not the Colour at all, or very little. It is good against all Poisons, Infections, Melancholy, and inveterate Distempers, to cherish the Spirits, to drive any thing from the Heart, to create an Appetite, and many more Disenses. Christ. Acost. Nat. Hist. of E. Ind.

Boda, f. f. a Wedding; the Etymology not known. vid. Covarr.

Bodas, the same as Boda, being indifferently us'd, either in the singular or plural Number, vid. Quix.

Andarse de Boda, en Boda, to go from Wedding to Wedding; that is, to live an idle spunging Life, always running from one good House to another, or from Feast to Feast, without taking any Pains, or minding any Thing but Mirth.

Prov. Aún se come el pan de la Boda, the Wedding Bread is still eaten; that is, the Wedding Feasting is scarce over, it is all Love and Mirth. The new married Couple have not had time to find fault with one another, or to fall out, because the Wedding Joys are fresh, it is Honey Moon still.

Prov. A la Boda de Don García lleva pan en la capilla, carry Bread in your Hood to Don Garcia's Wedding; that is, do not confide too much in the Cheer you shall have at a Feast or Wedding, but provide for yourself, lest it fall short, as they say it happened at this D. Garcia's Wedding, who was a poor Gentleman, and had invited many Guests, the better Sort had the Dinner set before them, and the others were forc'd to take up with a second Table, where Bread being scarce, one wiser than the rest, pull'd out a Piece he had brought from Home, and said as above: And he says in the Hood, because in former Ages the Men wore great Hoods, hanging behind, to pull over their Heads upon Occasion, before Hats were in use, and made use of them as a Pocket; it is a good Advice not to put so much Confidence upon others, as not to provide for one's self.

Prov. Boda buena boda mala, el Martes en tu casa: Whether the Wedding be a good one or a bad one, be at home, or you must be at home on Tuesday. It was once usual in Spain, especially among the ordinary sort, to be marry'd upon Saturday, and then they treated their Guests that Day, Sunday and Monday. So the Proverb says, you must be at home on Tuesday, because be the Wedding never so splendid, the Feasting is then done; or else because it is time to retire to look to your Business.

Prov. Boda de Negros, a Wedding of Blacks; that is, all Noise and Confusion, because those poor People at their Weddings have not the Order and Decency that is observed among Gentry; but all talk, sing, and dance without any Method.

Prov. De Bóhos, y bóhas se bincan las Bodas, Weddings are fill'd up with Men and Women Fools. It is a sufficient Sign of Folly to be always haunting Weddings, and such publick Meetings, to which Fools resort either to eat and drink, or to show their fine Cloaths, or because they know not how to spend their Time better.

Prov. De tales Bodas tales tortas, of such Weddings, such Cakes; that is, from such Company you must expect such Actions, or such a course of Life must come to such an End, or such Causes will produce such Effects. You can expect no more from a Cat but her Skin. They say the Occasion of the Proverb was a Gentleman's marrying a Lady that was not so chaste as Lucretia, and at his Wedding some Wag brought in Cakes stuck with Cornucopias, and some asking what that meant, another answer'd, Such a Wedding, such Cakes; alluding to the Horns that threaten'd the Gentleman.

Prov. Effe es de Boda, que duérme con la novia, he has most Share in the Wedding who lyes with the Bride; that is, he is the principal Guest, he has most Interest in the Wedding, for he has all the Enjoyment of the Feast and Bride at another's Expence.

Prov. La Boda de los pobres toda es ruido, Poor Peoples Weddings are all Noise, because, as was said above in the Blacks Wedding, the Poor have not that Order and Decency as the Rich, and all their Pleasure is Noise and Confusion.

Prov. La mas hermosa de todas como la otra hace Boda, the beautifullest of them all make a Wedding like another. This is a Check to the Pride of those Women who are conceited of their Beauty, to give them to understand, that the best they can expect is but to be marry'd and used as other Women are, to breed Children, bring them forth with Pain, and perhaps be no more valu'd.

Prov. La que no baila, de la Boda se fatiga, Let her that does not dance turn out of the Wedding. When you are at Rome, you must do as they do at Rome. In Company no one must be singular, but do as the Company does, or else leave it, lest they be look'd upon as Spies on the Actions of others. It is also Advice to Men to mind their Business or Employments, or not to undertake what they cannot, or will not attend.

Prov. Lo que no se hace a la Boda, no se hace a toda hora, What is not done at the Wedding, is not done at any indifferent time; that is, if People do not perform at the proper Seasons, as making a Feast at the Wedding, or the like, it is in vain to expect it of them at another time; applicable to those that refuse to do things in Season, and seek Delays, promising from Day to Day what ought to be perform'd out of hand.

Prov. Ni Boda sin canto, ni mortuorio sin llanto, there is no Wedding without singing, nor no Burial without weeping; this is natural, since every Body endeavour to rejoice at Weddings, and at Funerals many weep, though it be but for fashion.

Prov. No se Boda sin tornaboda, there is no Wedding without a second Wedding Feast. It is the Spanish Custom after the Bridegroom has celebrated the Festival of his Nuptials as long as he thinks fit, for the Wife's Father to treat all the Company splendidly, and this they call Tornaboda; that is, the Repetition of the Wedding. Or if this fails, the Bridegroom performs it himself, which is the Reason they say, there is no Wedding, without the Repetition of the Wedding, because it is look'd upon as an indispensable Duty.

Prov. No se hace la Boda de hongos, sino de buenos dados y colindas, the Wedding is not made of Mushrooms, but of good round Ducats; that is, it is not a slight Matter like Mushrooms, that will defray the Expence of a Wedding, but it requires good round Ducats; a round Expence, and not by halves. Applicable to any that think to do great Matters with a small Charge.

Prov. La flaca baila en la Boda, que no la gorda, the lean one dances at the Wedding, and not the fat one. This Proverb is by Way of Advice to unwieldy Women, that they do not covet to go to Places where there must be Dancing, because they will be sham'd by young tender Girls who are fit for that Sport. In general, it directs all Persons to apply themselves to that they are fit for, and not to aim at what they can never perform.

Prov. Qual Boda sin Dña Toda? What Wedding is there without Dña Toda. This is a Reproof to all those that thrust themselves into every Company, and take care to miss no merry Bout, as they say this Dña Toda did, from whom the Proverb took its rise.

Prov. Quien se ensaña en la Boda, pier de la toda, he that takes Part at a Wedding loses it all. If a Man grows passionate and peevish, he either goes away, and so has no Share of the Merry-making, or if he stays, is so discompos'd, that it little affects him. To instruct us not to be easily provok'd, or grow angry in Company that is met to be jovial and merry.

Prov. Quien bien baila, de Boda en Boda se anda, he that is a good Dancer goes from one Wedding to another. Whoever has any particular Grace, as Dancing, Singing, good Conversation, or the like, is always acceptable in such merry Meetings, and therefore is commonly invited, or if not, easily intrudes.

Prov. Si desta escapa, y no muero, nunca mas Bodas al cielo, if I escape this, and do not die, I'll never go to see more Weddings in Heaven. This is a Fable, that the Fox seeing the Eagle very weary, ask'd where she had been, who answer'd at a Wedding in Heaven. The Fox desired her the next Wedding there was in Heaven to carry her thither, which was what the Eagle desired, and accordingly came and took up the Fox, whom from a great Height she let fall. The Fox as she was tumbling cry'd out, If I escape this Bout and am not kill'd, I'll never go to more Weddings in Heaven. Apply'd to those who having run themselves into some great Danger, take warning by it, and promise if they escape, never to run such Hazards again.

Prov. A la Boda del herrero, cada qual con su dinero, every one goes with his own Money to the Blacksmith's Wedding; this is in Country Towns, where there is but one Smith, and therefore all the People court him, so they go to his Wedding, and every one carries something to present him; every one is free to present where there is a Prospect of Interest.

Prov. Quando fueres a la Boda pon tu olla, when you go to a Wedding hang on your own Pot; that is, provide Meat at home, though you go to a Feast, for fear of what may happen. See more of this above under the Proverb, A la boda de Don Garcia, &c.

Prov. En la Boda quien menos come es la novia, at the Wedding it is the Bride that eats least. Because when all others are merry and free, Modestly restrains her.

Canela, f. f. Cinnamon. This excellent Bark, now so well known, is taken off a Tree about as big as an Orange-Tree, with a Leaf like that of a Laurel, and a small Fruit about as big as a wild Olive: There are abundance of these Trees on the Coast of Malabar, but the best Cinnamon is that of the Island of Ceylon: The Tree has two Barks, and the Cinnamon is the second, which being taken off and laid on the Ground, turns round with the Heat of the Sun, and grows red, whereas at first it is of an Ash-Colour. Every three Years there comes a new Bark upon the Trees: The Arabs call Cinnamon Salibacha, and Selicha, and Quersaa, and Quersan; the Chinese, Darchini; the People of Ceylon, whence the best comes, Guardos; those of Malacca, Caisman; the Malabars, Gamiop; the Canaries call the Cinnamon, Yechi, and the Tree, Giandra, and altogether, Techigiacdra. In Greek and Latin it is Casia; in Spanish and Portuguese, Canila; in French, Cannelle; in Hebrew, Cinamon; and in the Turkish Language, Darchini. Cinnamon is the true Cinnamomum of the Ancients, and there is no Difference between it and the Cassia lignea, but that the former is better than the other, and comes from the Island of Ceylon, as hath been said, as the worst does from Java, and the Coast of Malabar. The Cinnamon which looks whitish is not well cur'd, that which is blackish is over dry'd, and the true red is in Perfection: It is hot and dry in the third Degree. Aoostas natural Hist. of the East-

Prov. En Cáza del mezquino, mas manda la mujer que el marido, in the poor spirited Man's House, the Wife rules more than the Husband; this is obvious enough.

Prov. En Cáza de tu enemigo, la muger ten por amigo, in your Enemy's House make the Woman your Friend; this is not very Christian Advice, either to have an Enemy, or to set his Wife against him. But according to the World, it seems politick to debauch an Enemy's Wife, and make a Friend of her against him.

Prov. En Cáza del rey la muger es Alguacil, in the base Man's House the Wife is Alguacil; that is, she rules. It is the same with that above, En Cáza del mezquino, &c.

Prov. Huila la Cáza a hombre, y el andrón redondo, let the House smell of a Man, and he was tumbled about; that is, the Husband says, let the World know here is a Man to rule this House, and at the same Time he was kick'd about it.

Fl h

Thi

This was a Husband, who having been well beaten by his Wife, when the Neighbour came in to part them, cried out manfully, so to, let the House smell of Man, as if he had done great Feats, and thence it became a Proverb. So we tell of one who being beaten under the Table by his Wife, peep'd out and said, You shall never make me give over my manly Looks. It is applicable to all boisterous Bullies, who talk big, and take a beating.

Prov. Ni por Casa, ni por viña, no tómame mujer Ximia, o mezquina, do not take a Monkeyish, that is a very deform'd, nor a mean spirited Wife, for the sake of either House or Vineyard; that is, do not for a great Portion, marry a very deform'd or very ill-temper'd Woman.

Prov. Por Casa ni viña no tómame mujer parida, do not take a Wife that has had a Child, for the sake of House or Vineyard; this is only Advice not to marry any but a Maid, though she be rich.

Prov. Triste es la Casa donde la gallina canta, y el gallo calla, 'tis a sad House where the Hen crows and the Cock is silent; that is, where the Wife rules, and the Husband obeys.

Prov. Tal queda la Casa de la Duéna, y el Esclavo, como el fuego sin trobogaero, when the Husband is gone, the Widow's House is left like the Fire without a Back; that is, desolate and going to decay.

Prov. A Casa de tu hermano no vras cada serano, you must not go every Evening to your Brother's House; that is, be not too troublesome, tho' it be to your own Brother, and especially to go in the Evening when he must invite you to Supper, for a constant Guest is never welcome.

Prov. A Casa de tu tia, mas no cada dia, go to your Aunt's House, but not every Day: It is the same as the last above it.

Prov. Hacha en Casa como cernadero, home spun like coarse Cloth. This they say of an ignorant, dull, clownish Fellow.

Prov. Vda, y venida, por Casa de mi tia, going and coming to my Aunt's House: A Proverb taken from a Child, who as he went and came from School, still call'd it his Aunt's, because she gave him something, till the Boys jeer'd him in these Words. It is apply'd to those who cannot part by a Door without calling in, especially where there is any thing to be had, for where there is not, none call.

Prov. De fuera vendra, quien de Casa me abara, he'll come from abroad that will turn us out of Doors. This we see practis'd, and therefore it needs no explaining.

Prov. En Casa del mero no hables Algaracia, do not speak Arabick in the Moor's House; that is, do not pretend to speak a Language before those that are Masters of it, lest instead of getting Credit you expose your Ignorance.

Prov. En Casa de siempre cimen pollas, mal comen en la mesa, in the House where they always eat Chicken, the Servants must be but ill fed, because it is supposed the Servants can never have a belly full of such tender costly Fare.

Prov. En Casa del oficial asfuma la hambre, mas no se escucha, hunger peep into the House of the mason's House, but does not enter; that is, Hungers do men have never much to spare, so that Hunger looks upon them, but never dares enter, because they have still enough to satiate Nature.

Prov. En Casa del labar poco dura el alegría, Joy lasts but little in the Game ster's House; because if he happens once to have good Luck and rejoice his Family, the next Day he loses all again, and so overthrows that Joy.

Prov. En Casa lina presto se guisa la cena, in a full House the Supper is soon dress'd; it is plain enough, that where there is Plenty, a Meal is soon got ready.

Prov. En tu Casa no tienes sardina, y en la agina pides gallina? you have not a Pilchard in your own House, and ask for Fowls in another's; against those who starve at home, and are very dainty abroad.

Prov. De Casa de ruyn nunca buén aguinaldo, never a good New-Year's Gift comes out of a base Man's House. We must expect nothing that is good from a base Person; we cannot make a Silk Purse of a Sow's Ear.

Prov. De buena Casa buena brasa, from a good House a good Coal; the opposite of the last foregoing Proverb; from good People we may expect good Things.

Prov. Despues que la Casa está hecha la dexa, when the House is finish'd, leave it; because a new House is damp and unwholesome.

Prov. Quien haze Casa, o cuba mas gasta que ayda, he that builds a House, or makes a Wine-Press, spends more than he thinks for; the Charge of Building and Planting Vineyards is never certain.

Prov. Si quieres hazer de la Casa corral, quitale el techo, y cántalo becho, if you would make a Court-yard of your House, that is, if you would have it fall, take off the Roof, and the Business is done; because any Building that is uncovered soon runs to ruin.

Prov. Todo lo barè mas Casa con dos puertas no la guardare, I'll do any Thing, but will not take upon me to guard a House that has two Doors; because whilst a Man looks to the one, he can give no Account of the other.

Prov. Vende en Casa, y compra en feria, si quieres salir de lazeria, sell at home and buy in the Fair, if you design to get out of Want, that is, to grow rich; because in a Shop by Retail things are sold to the best Advantage, and in Fairs there are good Pennyworths by Wholesale.

Prov. La Casa quemada acudis con el agua, when the House is burnt, you bring Water. We say, when the Steed is stole, you shut the Stable Door.

Prov. Quien su Casa quema, espanta los ratones, y calientase a la lina, he that burns his House, frights away the Mice, and warms himself at the Fire; apply'd to those who are at great Expences to very little Purpose.

Prov. Quando en Casa engorda la moça, y al cuerpo el bazo, y al rey la bolsa, con mal anda la casa, when the Maid grows fat in the House, and the Spleen grows in the Body, and the King's Purse swells, Things go bad: By the Maid's growing fat is meant her Belly swelling; the growing of the Spleen every Body knows is bad, and the King's Purse swelling implies heavy Taxes, all which are displeasing.

Prov. Casa viña, es puta, pagalo itra, let another make a House, Vineyard, and Colt for you; that is, do not you undertake to build a House, or plant a Vineyard, or break a Colt, but buy them all ready to your Hand, as the Proverb above advises, in Case of the House and the Vineyard.

Prov. Casa hospedada, comida, y denostada, a House full of Guest is eaten up, and ill spoken of; the Expence devours the Owner, and it is ill spoken of, because much Company breeds Disorder.

Prov. Casa con dos puertas mala es de guardar, a House that has two Doors is ill to be secur'd: Or, Casa con dos puertas no la guardan todas Duéñas, a House that has two Doors, cannot be guarded by old Women; that is, there is much Difficulty in securing all Things, because whilst they look to one Door, sometimes may be done amiss at the other.

Prov. Casa con gota, ladrón la saltea, a House with a flat Roof, or with a Balcony is set upon by Thieves; because they have on such Places the better Convenience of breaking in without being seen from the Street.

Prov. En tu Casa cuézen habas y en la mia calderadas, in your House they boil Beans, and in mine Kettles full; there is something to do in your House, but much more in mine. It is generally taken in an ill Sense, as when there is much Quarrelling in a House, or the like.

Prov. En Casa de ahorcado no se ha de nombrar la foga, the Rope is not to be nam'd in a House that a Man has been hang'd out of; that is, we must be so far from reproaching any Body with their Misfortunes, that we must not name those Things which may put them in Mind of them.

Prov. En Casa del tanborilero todos son danzantes, in the Taborer's House they are Dancers; that is, the whole Family is something like the Head, for as the Master tabor, so they dance.

Prov. Pues que se gueta la casa calientamonos todos, since the House is on fire, let us all warm ourselves; that is, let us make the best of all Misfortunes.

Prov. A ydoi de mi Casa, y que queris con mi mujer, no ay que responder, there is no no Answer to get you out of my House, and what have you to do with my Wife? There is no Doubt but every one ought to be Master of his own House, and of his Wife, and therefore when he bids any Man go out of his House, or not to have to do with his Wife, the best way is to make no Answer.

Prov. En Casa del Herrero pedr apéro, the worst Tools are in the Smith's House. Or, en Casa del herrero cuchillo mangorrero, in the Smith's House a bad Knife; or as we express, none worse food than the Shoemaker's Wife.

Prov. No me busque en mi Casa, quien me puede ballar en la plaza, let him not look for me at Home, who can meet me in the Market-place. Men who have much Business abroad, do not love to be detain'd at home, whither they go to take their Rest, having Offices or other proper Places abroad for Business.

Prov. Casa con dos puertas, quando mas corrédas, tantas por abiertas, when a House has two Doors, tho' they are never so fast locked, you may make account they are wide open; that is, you can never be secure where there is a back Door, for whilst you watch one, you may be betray'd at the other. See two more Proverbs, to this Effect above.

Prov. Antes de casar, ten casas en que morar, tierras en que labrar, y viñas que plantar, before you marry, get a House to live in, Lands to till, and a Vineyard to prune; that is, do not marry till you have wherewith to maintain your Family.

Prov. Casa de padre, viña de abuelo, Olivár de rewisapengo, a Father's House, a Grandfather's Vineyard, and a great Grandfather's Olive-Garden; that is, these are best, viz. a House built by one's Father, which is season'd and not decay'd, a Vineyard by one's Grandfather, because it is full of some Standing, and the Olive-Garden requires much Time to grow up to Perfection.

Prov. Con mal anda la Casa, donde la nuca munda la espada, that House is in bad Plight, where the Dittaff commands the Sword; where the Woman wears the Breeches.

Casca, f. f. obs. a loose Coat, or Upper-Garment.

* Robuer Casaca, to turn Coat; that is, when any one turns from one Party to another.

Casada, f. f. a married Woman, a Wife
* Casada, the Original, or the Rise of a Family.

Casadero, adj. marriageable, of Age to marry.

Casado, adj. married; also a married Man, a Husband.

Prov. A la mal Casada miradle a la cara, look upon the Face of a Wife that has an ill Husband; this is in general, look upon a Woman, and by her Face you may discover whether she has a good Husband.

Prov. Quien ama la Casada la vida trae empujada, he who loves a married Woman has his Life but upon Courtesy; that is, till the Husband discovers the Intrigue, and kills him.

Prov. Bien, o mal, Casado me han, well or ill I am married; that is, when a Thing is past, there is no looking back.

* Casal, f. m. a small Village with few Houses.

Casamata, f. f. a Cazematte, which is a Platform in that Part of the Flank of the Ballion next the Curtain, somewhat retir'd and drawn back towards the Capital of the Ballion, on which Guns are planted, loaded with small Shot, to scour along the Ditch, and cover'd from the Enemies Works with Earth-works, call'd Orillons, or Epaulments.

* Casamentar, v. n. to marry.

Casamentero, f. m. f. a Match-maker.

Casamiento, f. m. a Wedding.

Prov. No ay Casamiento pobre, ni mortuorio rico, there is no poor Wedding, nor rich Burial; that is, always new married People are said to have great Portions and Estates, and Widows also pretend they are left poor.

Prov. Casamiento, y hadas malas presto son llegadas, Marriage and ill Luck are not long a coming; said by those that love a loose Life.

Prov. Casamiento bogas que a pleito andes, may you marry, so that you may have Law Suits; that is, rather a Curse than a Proverb, as wishing a Man may be at Variance with his Wife's Kindred, who ought to be his Friends.

Prov. Difos Casamientos que Maripárda haze, a unos pisa, y a otros plixe, some are pleas'd, and some displeas'd at these Matches Maripárda makes; that is, whoever meddles in such Affairs can never please all People.

* Casapuerta, f. f. a Porch, or Entry of any House, &c.

* Casquilla, f. f. diminut. of Casaca.
Casar, to marry, to wed. Hebrew
Casar, to bind.

Prov. Antes que te Cases, mira lo que haces, que no es nudo que así desates, before you marry, take heed what you do, for it is no Knot that can be easily untied; that is very plain Advice to be cautious in the Affair of Matrimony, because it is indissoluble. It may be applied in other Cases, as we say, look before you leap.

Prov. Casar, Casar, y quien ha de govirnar, marry, marry, and who must rule the House; a Reproof to young People that would marry before they have Sense to govern a Family. It is said upon any Occasion, when People would undertake what they are not capable of.

Prov. Casar, y compadrar, cada qual con su yguál, let every one marry, and make a Gossip of his equal; a general Advice to endeavour in all Things to have to do with our Equals, especially in Matrimony, because inequality of Birth, or Fortune, is often the Cause of Discord.

Prov. Cástate verás, perderás sueño, nunca dormirás, marry and you'll see what will come of it, you'll lose your Sleep, and never close your Eyes; a Proverb to express the Care that Matrimony brings upon a Man.

Prov. Casars, y amansars, you'll marry and grow tame; it is a common Saying in English, if you will tame any one marry him.

Prov. Casar ruynes, y nacerán montañeses, marry a base Couple, you'll have a wild breed; it is a general Opinion that the Children take after the Parents, and sometimes it may be, but daily Experience shows the contrary. In Beasts indeed the main Thing is the Breed, but in Man I think Education is the Principal.

Prov. De cedo Casar, y cedo madrugar, arrepentite bas, mas no mucho mal, you'll repent marrying early, and rising very early, but there is no great harm in either.

Prov. Para mal Casar, mas vale nunca maridar, better never be a Husband, or have a Husband, than ill married.

Prov. Quien lexe se va a Casar, o va engañado, o va a engañar, he that goes a great Way to marry, is either cheated, or goes to cheat; we find this too often verified, for Things at a great Distance are seldom truly represented.

Prov. Quien tarde Casa, mal Casa, he that marries late, marries ill; because they ought to marry young, to have Children, and to be used to one another's Temper, for old People when they first come together cannot bear with one another's Failings, and the Scripture says, Bonum est viro cum portaverit jugum ab adolescentia sua.

Prov. Quien mal Casa, tarde embiuda, it is long before he becomes a Widower, who marries ill; that is, when People are ill married they always think it long before the Widowhood comes.

Prov. Si quieres bien Casar, casa con tu yguál, if you would be well married, marry your equal; this we have above under the Words, Casar y compradrar, cada qual con su yguál.

Prov. Casar, Casar suena bien, y sabe mal, marry, marry, sounds well, and relishes but ill; that is, People talk of marrying with a great deal of Pleasure, but afterwards meet with Cares and Troubles that give it an ill Relish.

Prov. La que con muchos se Casa, a todos enfada, she that is married to many tires them all. In the literal Sense a Woman that marries many Husbands, is suppos'd to weary them out of their Lives with her ill Temper. But otherwise by Casar con muchos, to marry many, is only meant an impertinent Woman, that has an Oar in every Man's Boat, and has Business with every Body, which vexes and tires all the World.

Clavo de espécia, Clove. The Tree is like a Bay-Tree, with a very thick Head, and the Leaf smaller, neither very thick nor thin. This Tree bears Abundance of Blossoms, which all turn into Cloves. The Flower is first white, then green, when it has the Shape of the Clove, and soon grows hard and turns russet, and when gathered and dried, black. It grows upon the very Boughs of the Tree, and fewest of them at the Foot of the Leaves; one, two, three, or four grow out of one Stalk. When the Trees are loaded, they smell fragrant at a distance. All the Cloves brought into Europe come from the Molucco Islands. The Trees are wild and never planted nor grafted. The Clove is gather'd from September till February, and that which is not gather'd one Year grows bigger against the next. When gather'd it is dry'd for some Days in the Sun. The green Cloves are preserv'd, and others laid in Pickle to eat. These Trees the Islanders say are eight Years growing, and last an hundred. C O C

Cóca, f. f. is a small green Leaf growing on little Trees or Bushes about a Man's Height, in excessive hot and very moist Land. The Tree bears this Leaf every four Months. It requires much Care in cultivating, and much more to preserve it when gather'd. They lay it very orderly into long narrow Baskets, which they load on the Sheep of the Country, and they travel with this Commodity in Flocks carrying two or three thousand Baskets. It generally grows in the Country they call los Andes, in Bottoms which are intolerably hot, where it rains most Part of the Year; and it costs the Indians intolerable Labour and many Lives to look after it, because they go for it from the cold Mountains. The Use of it is only to chew and suck the Juice of it, but not swallow the Leaf. It doubtless is nourishing, for the Indians will travel great Journeys, or do any other great Labour without eating, with only a Handful of Coca. It has an unpleasant Taste, and they powder it with Ashes, or Lime. F. Jos. Acost. Nat. Hist. W. Ind. lib. 4. cap. 22. p. 252.

Cóca, o Palma de las Indias, the Coco Tree, otherwise call'd the Palm Tree, because like the Palm, being tall, hard, and putting out greater Branches the higher they rise. The Fruit call'd also Cocos, or Coco Nuts by us, have a Shell whereof they make drinking Cups; the Kernel tastes somewhat like a new Almond, but when hanging on the Tree, all within is Water, which they drink as a great dainty, and to cool them in hot Weather. They say the Tree puts out a new Cluster of Coco-Nuts every Month, so that it produces twelve Times in a Year; they are commonly as big as a small Musk-melon. There is another Sort they call Coquillos, or little Coco-Nuts, which is a better Sort of Fruit, and grows in the Kingdom of Chile, they are somewhat less than Walnuts, but rounder. There is yet another Sort, which does not give one single Kernel, but a great many little ones like Almonds, which are in it like the Seeds of a Pomegranate; these Almonds are three Times as big as those of Castile, and taste like them, but are a little harder; they are also juicy and oily, they are pleasant to eat, and for want of the others serve to make Marchpanes, and such like Dainties. They call them Almonds of the Andes, because abundance of them grow in the Ande of Peru, and they are so hard, that they require a great Stroke with a Stone to break them. F. Jos. Alost. Nat. Hist. W. Ind. lib. 4. chap. 26. pag. 25.

In the Mallioy Islands they build, rig, and fit out Ships from this Tree alone, which furnishes all the Timber, Masts, Yards, Sails, and Rigging, and when fit to sail, they load her with Commodities from the same Tree, as Oil, Wine, Vinegar, black Sugar, Fruit, and strong Water. With this Tree alone they build good Houses, and cover them with the Leaves. The Body of the Tree affords Timber for Building, of the Leaves they make Sails, of the outward Shell of the Nut all the Cordage and Rigging. The Wine is made by cutting a Branch of the Tree, and putting a Vessel under, into which that Liquor distils, and is call'd Sura. This several Times distill'd, becomes a strong Water, whereof there are two Sorts, the best call'd Fula, and the second Sort A-rach, or as we call it Rack; the same Sura set in the Sun becomes Vinegar. After the first Running of the Sura from the Tree, they receive the last Running in another Vessel, which boil'd, becomes Sugar, call'd there Jagra. The inward hard Shell serves to make Cups and Dishes, and is also used for Firing by curious Goldsmiths in those Parts. Of the Nut enough has been said, but in the East-Indies they dry it, and so keep it all the Year, carrying it to several Parts. Of this dried Kernel they also make very good Oil, and another Sort of it green. Alost. Nat. Hist. of the E. Ind.

Cornúdo, adj. horned, a Cuckold; also a Sort of Fish.

Prov. Cornúdo foy marido, Múger, y quien se lo dixó, Husband, you are a Cuckold, Wife, who told you so; a common Saying, when a Man will not take Notice of his own Shame, or endeavours to turn off Affronts slightly, as here, the Wife calls her Husband Cuckold, and he, as if she did not know it, asks, who told her so.

Prov. Cornúdo, y apaleádo, mandáde baylar, when a Man is cuckolded and beaten, bid him dance. This they say when a Man is much wrong'd and yet they make him pay Costs, or when after abusing a Man they would have him be merry. The Story is of one who catching his Wife with a great Man, was beaten by him and then they made Friends, and the Company danc'd, bidding the Husband dance with them, who answers with this Proverb. As if it were not enough that a Man should be cuckolded and beaten, but he must dance too.

Prov. Mas vale ser Cornúdo que no la sepa ninguno; que sin serlo, ponerlo todo el mundo, it is better to be a Cuckold, so no body knows it, than not to be so and have all the World believe it. Because the Shame is in the Opinion of the World, for whatever Disgrace is not known never puts a Man out of Countenance.

Prov. Mucho sabía el Cornúdo, pero mas quien se lo puso, the Cuckold was very cunning; but he was cunninger that cuckolded him. This is applicable to any Man that has a great Conceit of himself; but is outwitted or over-reach'd by another. For he that cuckolded another, must use Art to deceive him.

Prov. Por esso es uno Cornúdo, porque pueden mas dos que uno, therefore a Man is a Cuckold, because two are too hard for one. The Wife and the Gallant contrive to abuse the Husband, and being two, they have the Advantage of him. This is apply'd in all other Cases, whereas we say, two to one is Odds; or, two Heads are better than one.

Prov. Quien es Cornúdo, y lo consiente, que sea Cornúdo para siempre, he that is a Cuckold and allows it, may be a Cuckold for ever. If a Man knows his Shame, and does not resent, or endeavour to amend it, no body ought to pity him, but to wish it may attend him for ever.

Prov. Quien es Cornúdo, y calla, en el corazón trae un ascua, he who is a Cuckold and says nothing, carries a burning Coal in his Heart. When a Man stifles his Resentment, and endeavours to conceal his Disgrace, it corrodes his Heart, and consumes him, like a burning Coal upon his Heart.

Prov. Tras Cornúdo sañado, angry, or morose, after being made a Cuckold; that is, when a Man after being cuckolded shews himself dogged and surly, yet has not the Courage to punish the Offenders, but only shews his Resentment in his Looks.

Prov. El mal del Cornúdo, el no lo sabe y fábelo todo el mundo, all the World knows the Cuckold's Misfortune, but he knows it not himself. This is a common Saying when Men are kept ignorant of their own Misfortunes, which are publicly known abroad, as is usual in this particular Case, for very often a Man knows nothing of his being a Cuckold, though it be whisper'd about all the Country, because no body cares to tell him. This same is said shorter, thus,

Prov. El postro que lo sabe es el Cornúdo, the Cuckold is the last that knows it, as above.

San Juan y Corpus Christi sólo en un Día, the Feasts of St. John, and Corpus Christi, all in one Day; this they say when two great Occasions of Joy come together.

Prov. Más Días ay que longanizas, there are more Days than Saulages; this they say to one that spends what he has lavishly, to signify he may outlive his Estate.

Prov. El buen Día meterle en casa, take hold of a good Day; that is, make Hay while the Sun shines.

Prov. Buenos Días, Però Díaz, Mas quisiera mis blanquillas, Good-morrow Peter Diaz, he answers, I had rather have my little Money; that is, fair Words pay no Debt.

Prov. Cada día olla, &c. vid. Olla.

Prov. Casar y mal Día todo en un Día, to marry and have an ill Day of it; that is, to have Joy turn'd into Sorrow; though others will have it that the Wedding Day is always a bad Day.

Prov. El Día que te casas, o teñas o te matas, the Day you marry, you either cure or kill yourself; that is, according as it proves, you either make your Life happy or miserable.

Prov. Si quieres un Día bueno, házte la barba; un mes bueno, mata un puercu; un año bueno casate; un siempre bueno házte clérigo, if you would have a good Day, trim yourself; if a good Month, kill a Hog; if a good Year, marry; if a good Ever, turn Clergyman. When a Man is trimm'd, he is clean and easy, which makes a good Day; a Hog has a great deal of Variety in him, which affords good eating for a Month; the first Year of Matrimony is pleasantest, before Children and other Troubles come on; the Clergyman, having none to take Care of but himself and his Soul, is always easy and lives well.

Prov. A cada malo su Día malo, every wicked one has his wicked Day; or every Dog has his Day.

Prov. Al Día bueno ábrele la puerta y para el malo te apareja, open the Door to a good Day, and prepare for the bad; that is, embrace, and make your Advantage of a favourable Opportunity, and provide to receive ill Fortune when it comes, that you may not be surpriz'd.

Prov. Al quinto Día verás que me avrás, the fifth Day you will see what Month you will have; that is, such as the fifth Day of the Moon proves, you may expect the rest of the Month; from the Latin Quarta quinta qualis, cetera luna talis.

Prov. Difde que nací llorè, y cada Día nace porque, as soon as I was born, I wept, and every Day produces cause to weep; to express the Unhappiness of this Life.

Prov. Día de núblo la mañana larga, el Día ninguno, a cloudy Day is a long Morning, and no Day; that is, when the Sky is clouded, it looks like a long Break of Day, and no Day, because in Spain they are so used to see the Sun, that they count it no Day when it does not shine out.

Prov. En buen Día buenas obras, the better the Day, the better Deed.

Prov. Tus los Días viene el fijo, Sense comes with Age.

Prov. Un Día frío, y otro caliente, háze al hombre doliente, a cold Day, and then a hot Day, makes a Man sick. Uncertain Weather is unwholesome.

Prov. Más vale un Día de placer que ciento de pesar, one Day of Pleasure is better than an Hundred of Sorrow; an Ounce of Pleasure is better than a Pound of Sorrow.

* Diabla, f. f. a She-Devil.

* Diablar, v. a. to infuse diabolical Notions.

Diablo, f. m. the Devil. Latin Diabolus.

Prov. Essar como el Diábolo apareció a San Benito, to be as the Devil appear'd to St. Benedict; that is stark naked. Because the Devil is said to have appear'd to that Saint like a naked Woman.

Prov.

Prov. Tanto quiso el Diáblo a su hijo que le sacó los ojos, the Devil was so fond of his Son, that he pull'd out his Eyes; applied to People that give their Children their Will in every thing, through Excess of Fondness, and so breed them ill, and are the Cause of their Ruin, and their coming to Disasters.

* Prov. El hombre es fuego, la mujer es pólvora, llega el Diáblo y sopla, the Man is Fire, the Woman is Pow; and when they meet, the Devil will blow. This Proverb forewarns us of too great a Familiarity with Women, for as their Charms are too prevalent, and our Nature too frail, and condescending, it gives an Opportunity for the Devil to set both in a Flame.

Prov. Quando el Diáblo, ríza, engañar, quiere, when the Devil prays, he designs to deceive; applied to Hypocrites who seem holy, only to impose upon others; when the Fox preaches beware of the Geese.

Prov. Váyase el Diáblo por ruyn, y quede en casa Martín, let the Devil be gone for a wicked one, and let Martin stay in the House; applied to those who believe any Story that is told them, though they see the contrary with their Eyes. Taken from an hypocritical Servant, who under the Cloak of Sincerity, cuckolded his Master, who having surpriz'd him at too much Familiarity with his Wife, was easily persuaded to believe, it was only the Devil that tempted the Man, but that he had never consented, and therefore the Master speaks the Words of the Proverb.

Prov. To como tu, tu como Yo, el Diáblo nos juntó, I like you, and you like me, the Devil put us together; said of a married Couple where both are bad.

* Dioptra, f. f. a Quadrant, or Geometrical Instrument, wherewith the Distance and Height of a Place is known afar off.

Dios, f. m. God: Latin Deus.

Dios y ayuda, God and good Friends; worldly Means forward the Work of God.

No hizo Dios a quien desamparar, God made nobody to forsake him, he provides for all the Creatures he makes.

Qual Dios te truxo por acá, what good Luck brought you hither? When we are surpriz'd to see one where we did not expect.

A Dios que me mudo, farewell, for I remove my Quarters; when a Man has been civilly entertain'd in a House, he must not go away without taking Leave.

Quedar a pedir por Dios, to be reduc'd to Beggary.

De Dios en ayuso, under God.

De Dios lo ayá, God reward you, says he who is not able to make a Return himself.

Prov. Dios dá el frío, conforme a la ropa, God gives the Cold according to the Cloaths; that is, God gives every Man what he is able to bear, the Poor that are ill clad, are not so sensible of the Cold as the Rich, who have all Conveniences.

Prov. Dios me de marido, rico, siquiere sea borracho, God give me a rich Husband, though he be an Ass. This is a Woman's Wish, who cares not what her Husband is, provided he have but Wealth to keep her well.

Prov. Dios te dé ovejas, y hijos para con ellas, God give you Sheep, and Sons with them; a friendly Prayer to wish a Man Cattle, and that his own Children may look to it, that Shepherds may not cheat him. The same may be understood of any other worldly Goods.

Prov. Dios te dé padre y madre en villa, y en tus tréxos trigo y harina, God give you a Father and Mother in Town, and Corn and Meal in your Granaries; by a Father and Mother in Town is meant, that they may live in a rich Place, where they may be likely to thrive, and provide for the Son, but in Case they should not, he wishes Granaries full of Corn, that the Son may not stand in need of them.

Prov. Dios te salve Míndo. No a mi quí què estoy comiendo, God save you Mendo, not me, for I am at Dinner; an atheistical Proverb, suppos'd to come from the Mouth of a brutal Man, who having got what he wants, forgets God, and therefore when they say to him, God save you, which he looks upon as too familiar an Expression, he answers, Not me, for I am at Dinner; reckoning himself above that familiar Salutation, though attended by so good a Prayer.

Prov. Dìos te guárde de piedra, y dardo, y de hombre desnudado, God preserve you from a Stone, and Dart, and from a furious Man. This is a general Prayer to deliver us from all Dangers, and especially such as are unforeseen, as a Stone, or Dart, which reach at a Distance, and a furious Man, who does any Mischief before he gives warning.

Prov. Dìos me depure meson, que la huésped, me haga algo, y el huésped non, God send me to an Inn where the Hostess may be some kin to me, and not the Host; the same is otherwise express'd, Allu me lleva Dìos a esse meson, do sea de la huésped, y del huésped no, God carry me to that Inn that belongs to the Hostess, and not to the Host. Both tend to the same, which is, that a Man may be entertain'd by the Hostess, who is commonly kinder, and neater than the Host.

Prov. Dìos te de salud y gozo, y casa con corral, y pozo, God give you Health and Joy, and a House with a Court, and Well. This Proverb is a good Prayer, wishing a Man all Happiness, signified by Health, and Joy, and the Conveniences of Life, denoted by a Courtyard, which is an Addition to a House, and makes it pleasant, and a Well to have Water plentifully for all uses.

Prov. Dìos te guárde de párrafo de legista, y de infra de canonista, y de, &c. de Escriuano, y de recípe de medico, God keep you from the Paragraph of a Civilian, the Infra of a Canonist, the &c. of a Notary, or Scrivener, and a Physicians Recipe, or Bill. This Proverb is a good Prayer for God to deliver a Man from falling into the Hands of Lawyers of any sort, and of Scriveners, or Physicians.

Prov. Dìos te de bienes, y casa en que los echas, God give you Goods, and a House to put them into. This is still a good Prayer made Proverbial.

Prov. Dìos te de poder en villa, y en tu casa barina, God give you Power in a Town, and Meal in your House; that is, though you be in Authority and Command, may you have a Substance of your own, which is signified by Meal, that you may not altogether rely upon your Employment, and perhaps be induced to ill Practices, if it be not such as will keep you in Plenty.

Prov. Dìos me de contienda con quien me entienda, God grant I may have to do, or contend with those that understand me; that is, God grant I may converse, or contend, or have Dealings with Men of Sense and Understanding, who are capable of Reason, and not with dull Brutes, who are incapable of Reason.

Prov. Dìos te de Pásas buena, y las arbores en la cadena, God give you good Holidays, and the Olive in a Gail. This is a Reflexion on those that will fare well, and spend much Money upon Holidays, though they run in Debt, and be carried to Prison as soon as they are over.

Prov. Dìos dixo lo que sera, God said what will be; that is, only God can tell what will be hereafter, to show the Folly of those, who think by Astrology, or even by Sorcery to dive into Futurity, whereas there is nothing so certain as that God alone knows what is to come.

Prov. Dìos defuérnga quien nos mantenga, God grant some may fall out that may maintain us; this is a Prayer of Lawyers, wishing for Discord, that Law Suits may ensue; and of Surgeons, that People may fall out and wound one another, to make Work for them.

Prov. Dìos no come ni bebe, mas júga lo que rue, God does neither eat nor drink, but he judges what he sees; a Christian Proverb to put us in mind that God sees all Things, and is an impartial and immortal Judge of all our Actions.

Prov. Dìos consiente, mas no siempre, God bears, but not always; to signify, that though God is merciful, and bears a long Time, yet his Revenge or Justice will come at last, and perhaps, when we least expect it.

Prov. Dìos hará merced. Y aun tres dias sin comer, God will provide. And I shall fast three Days longer. A Proverb in two Parts, the first shows that he who wants for nothing, comforts one that is starving with the Hopes that God will provide for him, without stretching out his Hand to relieve him; and the other, as in Despair, answers, and I shall fast three Days longer; that is, you see me starve and will not relieve me, and you comfort me with that Provision which may come after I am dead.

Prov. Dìos paga a quien en malos pasos anda, God requites those that follow ill Courses; it needs no explaining, for God's Justice sooner or later overtakes all wicked Men.

Prov. Dìos nos de mucho pan y mala cosecha, God give us much Corn, and a bad Harvest; this is the Prayer of wicked Farmers, who would every one have a great deal of Corn themselves, and a bad Harvest for all the Rest, that they might sell theirs dear, though others starve. This Prayer is too frequent among us, where one of the greatest Grievances is a plentiful Harvest.

Prov. Dìos no se queja, mas lo suyo no dexa, God does not complain, but he quits not his own; that is, God, who is Almighty, does not, like Man, complain of the Offences done him; but, though he is silent, he does not quit the Right he has to punish, which he executes at his own Time.

Prov. Dìos es, el que sana, y el medico lleva la plata, it is God that cures, and the Physician has the Money. All Health is from God, but some Men when they recover of a Sickness, give all the Glory to the Physician, without remembering God, or giving him Thanks for preserving them.

Prov. Dìos ayúda a los mal vestidos, God helps those that are ill clad; all the World is ready to serve and assist those that are well clad; that is, those who want for nothing, but the Poor, the Distress'd, signified by those that are ill clad, have none but God to help them.

Prov. De Dìos el medio, half of God; this is an Expression of ill Christians, who will serve God by Halves, or take one Half of his Precepts, and so give the other Half of their Life to the Devil. It is also a profane Expression to signify how great a Thief a Man is, by saying he will steal Half of God himself.

Prov. Dìos y vida componen villa, God and Life make up a Town; that is, with the Assistance of God and the Help of living Creatures, Towns and Cities are made.

Prov. Dìos nos dió el rey de las ranas, God gave us the King of the Frogs; this they say, when People could not be satisfied when they were well, and therefore run themselves into Misfortunes. The Fable of the Frogs and their King is well known.

Prov. Dìos te libre de ira de señor, y de almoroto de pueblo, y de juzgo de espartoña, God deliver you from the Anger of a great Man, from a Mutiny of the People, and the Play or Sport of a Buskin made of Esparto. The first two are obvious enough, and their Danger well known, but the last only signifies the unlucky Tearing of those Buskins, when a Man travels with them, and so is left barefoot. Covarrubias makes this last out better, and says, it is God delivers you from falling into Contempt, and having the Rabble throw old Buskins, or old Shoes at you.

Prov. Dìos te libre de hombre de un libro, God deliver you from a Man of one Book; that is, that knows but one Book, because he has read it often, and having it in his Head, always tires and torments you with it.

Prov. A Dìos rogando, y con el mazo dando, praying to God, and laying on with the Beetle; that is, our Prayers must be accompanied with our Endeavours; we must not lye down in the Ditch and cry God help us, vid. Malara.

Prov. A quien Dìos quiere bien la casa le sabe, God knows the Houses of those he loves; that is, when God pleases to bestow his Mercies, he soon finds out those Persons he thinks fit to receive them; though never so obscure.

Prov. Créo en Dìos, y no en Puta vieja como vos, I believe in God, and not in such an old Whore as you; plain enough, and needs no more Exposition.

Prov. Mas vale a quien Dìos ayúda, que quien mucho madruga, he is better whom God helps, than he that rises early; that is, all our Endeavours without God's Blessing do not turn to account; according to the Psalm, Nisi Dominus edificaverit domum, &c.

Prov. Hágote porqué me hagas, que no eres Dìos que me valgas, I do you a good Turn that you may do me another, for you are no God that can support me; that is, one good Turn deserves another, God only is to be serv'd for his own Sake.

Prov. A Dìos te doy libreta, y bebida por hilar, God take you, Pound (of Flax) drank out and not spun; this is for those who spend the Money before the Work is done, and then curse the Work, calling it a dead Horse. The Story is that an old Woman being paid beforehand for a Pound of Flax, she drank out the Money, and every Time she went to spin cried, God take you, but meant the Devil take the Pound of Flax, because the Price of Spinning was spent before.

Prov. Allá me lleva Dìos a morar, do un huevo vale un real, God send me to live where an Egg is worth a Groat; that is, God grant I may live in a rich Country, for where there is Plenty of Money, all things are dear proportionably, and there the most Money is to be got, and there is the best Living.

Prov. Andá con Dìos, y con romadizo, la pierna quebrada, y el cuadril salido, God go with you, and a running Cold, a broken Leg, and the Bone sticking out; a back Prayer, but commonly spoke in jest.

Prov. A quien Dìos quiere bien en Sevilla le dió de comer, him that God loves well, he gives him whereon to live in Sevil; that is, they are belov'd by God who can live in that City. This is a Proverb made by the Admirers of Sevil, as others say, Quien no ha visto a Sevilla, no ha visto maravilla, he that has not seen Sevil, has seen no Wonder. And of Madrid, De Madrid al cielo, from Madrid to Heaven, as if it were so fine a Place, that a Man ought to covet to see nothing after it.

Prov. A quien Dìos quiere bien la perra le para lechones, the Man whom God loves, his Bitch brings forth Pigs; that is, where God's God's Blessing is, all Things turn to a Man's Advantage.

Prov. Buêno, Buêno, Buêno, mas guárde Diôs mi Burrâ de su centêno, good, good, good, but God keep my Ass out of his Rye; that is, such a one is a very good Man, every Body says, because no body tries to touch him in the sensible Part of his Goods, therefore says the Countryman, God keep my Ass out of his Rye, for if he gets in and eats but a Mouthful, as good as he is, he'll put her in the Pound, and me to trouble.

Prov. A tuêrto, y a derêcho ayûde Diôs a nuêstro consêjo, right or wrong. God help our Council; a Saying of obstinate Men of no Conscience, who would have God prosper their Undertakings, though never so unjust. This is said to such Men when they pray for Success to ill Designs.

Prov. Da Diôs âlas a la hormiga, para que se pierda mas ayna, God gives the Ant Wings that she may perish the sooner; that is, God raises up base Men that they may have the greater Fall. Tolluntur in altum, ut lapsu graviore ruant.

Prov. Da Diôs almêndras a quien no tiêne muêlas, God gives Almonds to those that have no Teeth; also Da Diôs habas a quien no tiêne quixâdas, God gives Beans to those that have no Jaws. They are two Proverbs to the same Effect, and signify, that God gives Plenty and Riches to them that have not the Heart to do good with them.

Prov. De Diôs viêne el biên, de las abejas miel, all good comes from God, and Honey from the Bees. This is a pious Proverb, to put us in mind that whatever Blessings we receive come from the Hand of God.

Prov. De al me vêngue Diôs, que del pa-sôr âgua y niêve, God give me Revenge of others, for the Snow and Rain will revenge me upon the Shepherd. These were the Words of a Gentleman, who being wrong'd by his Shepherd, was advis'd to punish him, and answered with this Proverb, as thinking the Hardships the poor Shepherd endur'd were Punishment enough for him. And this is a Christian Saying, to leave it to God to punish the Rich that offend us, and for the Poor to think their own Sufferings are Punishment enough.

Prov. De Diôs hablâr y del mûndo obrâr, to talk of God, and act worldly; this we see practis'd daily, and needs no explaining, it answers to a Wolf in Sheep's Cloathing.

Prov. De lo feo a lo hermoso dême Diôs lo provechoso, of the Beautiful, or Ugly, God give me that which is profitable; that is, I value not Beauty, nor Deformity, but Profit. As when a Man refuses a beautiful poor Wife, for one that is ugly and rich.

Prov. Le aquêlla me dêxe Diôs comêr, qu dêxa los pòllos, y comiêça a ponêr, God give me to eat of her that leaves the Chicken, and begins to lay. This is only wishing for a Pullet with Eggs; that is, one that is past being reckon'd among the Chicken, and begins to be with Egg.

Prov. Dêxe al doliente el fîno. Diôs te de salud hermano, he that is well says to the sick Man, God give you health Brother. This Proverb declares we are free enough of our good Wishes, and therefore it is used of one that refuses to give an Alms, and only says to a poor Man, God help you, for we are ready enough to give good Wishes, but not to open our Purse.

Prov. Eche Diôs âgua que bûcho està do caya, God send Rain, for the Place is made for it to fall on. So says the Countryman, when he has sow'd, and it is applied in all other Cases, where a Man has dispos'd all things for Success, and now only prays for God's Blessing to his Endeavours.

Prov. Esso se hàze, lo que a Diôs plâze, that is done, which pleases God; that is, we may be satisfied that what God ordains, will be.

Prov. Fiâr de Diôs sôbre batna prênda, to trust in God upon good Security. This the Poor say the Rich do, who put their Trust in God, because they have good Estates for their Security.

Prov. Guárdete Diôs de bêcho es, God keep you from It is done; that is, God deliver us from Evils that are done and cannot be recall'd, because what is done cannot be undone.

Prov. Guárdete Diôs del Diâblo, de ôjo de Ramêra, y buêllo de dâdo, God defend you from the Devil, the Eye of a Harlot, and the Turn of a Dye. This is a Prayer for Soul, Body, and Purse; the Words are plain enough, and need no Exposition.

Prov. Guardâdo es lo que Diôs guarda, that is well kept which God keeps; nothing is safe but what God secures, according to that of the Psalmist, Nisi Dominus custodierit civitatem, frustra vigilat qui custodit eam.

Prov. Hizonos Diôs, y maravillâmonos nos, God made us, and we admire at it; that is, we do not understand the great Works of God, and yet we are proud and vain, and instead of praising him for his Works, endeavour to pry into them, and dive into his Secrets.

Prov. Lo que Diôs da llevârse ha, what God gives must be born; there is no Opposing the Will of God, and if he gives Troubles they must be born with Patience. What can't be cur'd, must be endur'd.

Prov. Mas pûide Diôs ayudâr, que velar ni madrugâr, God can help more than Watching, or Rising early; the Blessing of God is beyond all human Endeavours.

Prov. Mas vâlê tâque tâque, que Diôs os sâlve. Tâque, Tâque, here signifies the Noise of the Hammer knocking at a Street Door, and the Proverb means, it is better there should be Knocking at your Door, than that any Body should come into your House unknown, till he says, God save you.

Prov. Miênte mas que dà por Diôs, he lyes more than he gives for God's Sake; this is to denote a great Liar, or one that makes no Conscience of what he says.

Prov. No te dê Diôs mas mal, que miêchos bijos y pòco pan, God give you no greater Curse than many Children and little Bread; this is Misery enough, and so plain as not to want expounding.

Prov. No dê Diôs a nuêstros amigos tânto biên que nos desconôscan, may it please God not to make our Friends so happy as that they may not know us. This is too frequent in the World, and therefore the Proverb is good, to pray that they may not have so much as not to forget themselves, as we daily see Men puff'd up with their Fortunes, who then refuse to know their best Friends.

Prov. No hizo Diôs a quien desamparâr, God made none to forsake them; though never so low or unfortunate, God's Providence is over all, and he takes care of the least, as well as the greatest, if they confide in him.

Prov. No hiêre Diôs con dos mânos, que a la mar hizo puêrtas, y a los rîos vâdos, God does not wound with both Hands, for he made Ports to the Sea, and Fords to the Rivers; that is, God does not send Calamities without some Comforts, he lays not on his Strokes with both Hands; that is, to sink us under them, but as there are Ports to the raging Sea, and Fords in rapid Rivers, so there are some Means of Comfort, or Relief in the greatest Sorrows, or Distress.

Prov. Plêga a Diôs que nâsca el peregril en el âscua, God grant the Parsley may grow in the Fire; this they say when they wish some good may be made of some great Misfortune.

Prov. Quândo Diôs quiere con tôdos viêntos llueve, when God pleases, it rains with all Winds; that is, when God pleases, any the most unlikely Things turn to our Advantage.

Prov. Quândo no tenia dâvate, agôra que têngo no te darê, ruêga a Diôs que no tênga, porquê te dê, when I had not, I gave you; now I have not, I will give you; pray to God I may not have that I may give you. These are the Words of a covetous Man, or rather of one upbraiding such a Person, and signifies, When I had not; that is, when I had little, I gave some of that little: Now I have, that is, much, I will give none, for Avarice is most prevalent on those that have most; therefore we ought to pray to God that he would restore such a one to his Poverty, that he might be restor'd to his Charity.

Prov. Quândo Diôs queria, allênde la hârba escupia, ag'ra que no pûdo, escupôme aqui lûrgo, when it pleased God I used to spit beyond my Beard, now I cannot do so, I spit here close by. Literally these are the Words of an antient Man who cannot spit from him; but says he could when he was young, and must now be satisfied to do as he can; but metaphorically they are used by any that have been rich, or in Power, and are fallen to a low Condition, who say that when they were in their flourishing Estate, they did what they pleased; but now they do what they can.

Prov. Qual Diôs te hizo tal te apiâde, as God made you, so may he have Compassion of you. This they say to a Natural, or any other that cannot himself, praying to God that since he has made him so wretched, he will accordingly provide for him.

Prov. Diôs proveêra, mas buên haz de paja se querra, God will provide, but he will expect a good Truss of Straw for himself; these are literally the Words of a brutal Clown, grudging God his Offering, or Tythes, but applied to any one who receives much, and grudges to make a small Return or Acknowledgment out of it.

Prov. Quândo Diôs no quiere el sânto no pûide, when God will not, the Saint cannot; that is, when God has decreed otherwise, the Saints to whom we pray for Intercession, cannot alter the Decree. There is no striving against the Will of God.

Prov. Qual era Diôs para mercader, what a good Shopkeeper or Merchant God would make? that is, how would any one thrive that knew what was to come, as God does?

Prov. Quândo Diôs quiere en ferêno llueve, when God pleases, it rains in fair Weather; that is, though all appear never so calm, or prosperous; if God pleases he can raise sudden Storms, or overthrow our Prosperity.

Prov. Quiên biên està; y mal búscâ, si mal le viêne, Diôs le ayûda, he that is well, and seeks to be ill, if ill befall him, God helps him; that is, God grants him what he sought for, though it be to his Loss, for God often gives a Man that for his Punishment, which he sought after for his Satisfaction.

Prov. Quiên siembra en Diôs espêra, he that sows, hopes in God; so in all other things, when a Man uses his Endeavours, he hopes God will give a Blessing.

Prov. Quiên no habla Diôs no le oye, God does not hear him who does not speak; without a Man makes known his Wants or his Desires, he cannot expect to be relieved; therefore these Words are in common Use to those who say, they have long wanted any thing, yet did not speak before.

Prov. Quien yerra, y se enmienda, a Dios se encomienda, he that commits a Fault and mends, recommends himself to God; that is, as frail Men, we commit Faults, but if we endeavour to amend, God's Mercy accepts of that Sign of our Repentance, and the very Amendment is a Sort of Prayer to God.

Prov. Quien se muda Dios le ayuda, he that removes, God helps him; this may be taken in a superstitious Sense, as if removing from one Place to another did alter a Man's Fortune; but the true Meaning is, that generally People remove to better themselves, for we do seldom go from one Place to another, but upon some Prospect of Advantage, or Satisfaction.

Prov. Quien se guarda, Dios le guarda, God keeps him that keeps himself; that is, if a Man takes care to keep himself out of Dangers, it is likely God will keep him from their ill Consequences. We must not run ourselves into needless Dangers out of a vain Confidence in God.

Prov. Quien de los suyos se aléxa, Dios le dexa, God forsakes him that removes far from his Friends. It means that Friends and Relations are more likely to do for a Man than Strangers. This Proverb is good in Spain, where Kindred never fail to help one another, but in England, where this is little practis'd, it is of no Value, for here only those are a-kin to the Rich who are as well to pass as they, the poor Relations are disown'd and cast off.

Prov. Rogámos a Dios por santos, mas no por tantos, we prayed to God for Saints, but not for so many; literally, a Saying of poor labouring People, when too many Holidays come, on which they must not work, but applied in any other Case when things come too fast. Too much of one thing is good for nothing.

Prov. Si Dios quisiere, y Juan viniere, achartámos a Pedro de casa, if God please, and John comes, we'll turn Peter out of Doors; that is, if we can get a better Servant, we'll turn away a worse. Or in any other Sense, if it please God to furnish us with what is better, we will fare better.

Prov. Si Dios de aquí me levanta, mañana bilare una montaña. Sol y día bueno, que meñta. O que duño, if it please God I rise to-morrow, I'll spin a Blanket; the Sun shines, and 'tis a fair Day, what need of a Blanket, or where is the Grief? An old Woman being very cold in her Bed, promis'd if she liv'd till the next Day, to spin for a Blanket, but the Sun shining, and feeling herself warm the next Day, she did not care for Spinning, and thought there was no need of a Blanket; this is applied to all People who in their Distress make fair Promises and perform nothing, when they are deliver'd from it. We say, Vows made in Storms are forgot as soon as it is calm.

Prov. Valite Dios Pedro. No tal que el áño es ralo, God help you, Peter, No need, for the Añ is strong. A good Man seeing an Añ run away with a Country Fellow, cried, God help you, fearing he might fall; there is no need, says the Clown, for the Añ is strong; applied to those who are grown rich and great, and when Men say, God help them, are so proud, that they think they do not stand in need of God.

Prov. Unos Dios a ver sin campanilla, God came to see him without a Bell; when a Man has any great Happiness befalls him unexpected, they say, God came to see him, that is with a Blessing, and without a Bell, because when the blessed Sacrament is carried to dying Men, which is expressed by God's going to visit them, there goes a Bell before to give Notice.

Prov. Quiera Dios Matia, por este hijo nuestro sea, God grant, Matthea; this be our Son; this is the Prayer of a Country Man, who married a Wife, and she was brought to Bed at six Months end, which made him mistrust the Child was not his, but a Physician who had got it, persuaded him he was more than other Men; who could get a Child in six Months, yet the Doubt remaining in his Head, he still said, God grant the Child be ours. This is applicable in all Sorts of Doubts, but most used when Men boast of Actions, or Works, which we mistrust are not their own, for then this Proverb is well applied to them. We have a blunt Saying, I pray God you be John, and not unlike it; and taken from a Wench who had a Man a Bed with her, and much doubted whether it was her real Sweetheart.

Prov. Después de Dios la olla, next to God the Olla; that is, the Pot of boil'd Meat and Soup, which the Spaniards are so great Admirers of, that it caused this Saying. Some Waggs add, Dize el Biscayno, aun antes si puedo, The Biscayer says, and before, if I can get it, representing the Biscayer as such an Atheist, that he prefers it before God.

Los Dislates de Juan de la Enzina, the Absurdities of John de la Enzina. This John de la Enzina was a very learned Man in Salamanca, who compos'd a Sort of doggerel Rhymes, extraordinary ingenious, but so contriv'd that they found like Absurdities, under which much Wit and Judgment is couch'd. These took so well with all Sorts of People, that many other serious things he compos'd were lost; and it remain'd a Proverb, when any body spoke absurdly, to say, They are the Absurdities of John de la Enzina. He being upon a Journey, the Inn-Keeper's Wife hear'd the Servants name their Master John de la Enzina, whereupon she slept up to him, and gazing in his Face, said, Sir, was it you that compos'd the Absurdities? At which he was much out of Countenance, and gave her some hard Words, wherein he was guilty of the greatest Absurdity.

Esita, this Word is corrupted both as to the Way of Speaking or Writing, and the Signification, for it is used to signify that a Man stood firm in the Denial, and could never be brought to speak the Truth of what was ask'd him, therefore they say such a one always said Esita; that is, he discovered nothing. The true Word is Ephthata, spoken by our Saviour when he cur'd the deaf and dumb Man, and signifies be opened, commanding his Mouth and Ears to be opened, to speak and hear: Therefore this Word is used in Baptism, in universal Imitation of our Saviour; but the Generality of the People have made use of it to signify the Dumbness of a Man who will not confess what is ask'd of him.

This Monster they say kept on a high Rock, and propos'd a Riddle to all that pass'd that Way, which if they could not expound, it tore them to Pieces. The Riddle was, What Creature is it that in the Morning goes on all Four, at Noon on Two, and at Night on Three Legs. Oedipus passing that Way declar'd it was Man, who in his Infancy, or Morning, goes on Hands and Feet; when grown up, or at Noon, on his Legs; and in his Old Age, or at Night, on his Legs, with the Help of a Staff. The Monster was so enrag'd to have its Riddle expounded, that it cast itself headlong from the Rock and dy'd. This is a poetical Fable, but the Sphinx is suppos'd to have been a Robber, slain by Thebes. The true Name is Sphinx, the Spaniards, as usual, frame it to their Tongue.
